Great American Ball Park History and Overview Great American Ball Park is located at 100 Joe Nuxhall Way in Cincinnati Cincinnati and it's home to the Cincinnati Reds. Great American Ball Park opened its doors in 2003 and replaced Cincergy Field, which was home to the Reds from 1970 to 2002. Great American Ball Park has a capacity of 42,319 for Reds games. The Cincinnati Reds Best Seats The Best Seats for a Cincinnati Reds game are behind the home plate in diamond club or scout seats. Other attractive seats include Field Box along the excavations, or club seats in level 300. Finally, sections 408-410 are all you can eat seating, and even if the view isn't optimal, you can certainly get the value of your money if you skip lunch or dinner before the game. Cincinnati Reds Premium Seats Great American Ball Park offers some premium seating options for the Cincinnati Reds. The most expensive seats are those located behind the home plate, known as diamonds seats (sections 1-5). These places include food and drinks with waiting service, as well as access to the exclusive Mercedes-Benz Diamond Club. The Diamond Club features a window that looks directly into the tunnel leading from the Reds Clubhouse to the disearth. Seats directly behind the Diamond Club are known as scout seats. These seats offer a waiting service (not included in the ticket price) and access to Scouts Alley with private concessions and toilets. Finally, the 300 sections are known as the Club level, with access to the Fox Sports Ohio Champions Club. Club amenities include a wide selection of food and unlimited water and soft drinks. Cincinnati Reds Sun and Moon Deck Seats Sun Deck/Moon Deck seats are located in the right field of Great American Ball Park in sections 140-146. These are seating for real Reds fans, and despite the price, they offer good lines of sight for any Reds game. But be ware, these are some of the only sections that are always in the sun, so be sure to bring your own sunscreen. Cincinnati Reds Places in the Shade If you're looking for shaded seats at Great American Ball Park, you're going to seriously consider Club Level seats in the 300 sections. Be sure to sit above row F to make sure you're not just in the shade, but covered in rainy weather. In the other levels, if you sit the last 5 rows you will be sure to be out of the sun. As a general rule, the right field tends to be more sun-protected than the left field. Cincinnati Reds Dugout and Bullpen Locations The Cincinnati Reds Dugout faces sections 128-131 and the visitors' dugout is in front of sections 115-118. The Cincinnati Reds Bullpen is located in the center field near section 101, and the visitors' bullpen is between sections 139-140. Handicapped & ADA Seating at Great American Ballpark For those confined to a wheelchair and/or those who to participate in a game at the Great American Ballpark with someone who is, there's some important information you're going to want to know. If you are looking for ADA or disabled PLACES, you will find that there are accessible files at the top most of the sections within the baseball field and spread throughout. If necessary, folding chairs will come with guests, such as those looking to sit with a fan confined to a wheelchair. One trick you can use to filter tickets that are disabled or ADA accessible is by using our Additional Filters button on the event page that allows you to select ADA (accessible wheelchair), which shows all the seats that the seller has marked as handicapped seating. The Cincinnati Reds player autographs up to 45 minutes before game time (or at the end of batting practice), Cincinnati Reds fans have the chance to score autographs from their favorite players. Ticket holders in sections 111-113 and 133-135 will have the easiest time to do so, as these are the sections where players will be.
